Editorial.

This is the sixth war-time Penvro, and the fourth "austerity" number. in which space is so much reduced. One result of this necessary economy in paper is that very few articles can be included. This number is poorer than any in that respect, as it has been found possible to print only one original item, the poem following this editorial Other articles came in later, and were actually sent to print, but had to be held back owing to the large number of items about old pupils that had been received. We must apologise to those who responded to the request for articles and hope to be able to include their work next time.

At the moment of writing the C W.B examinations have just begun, as have the terminals. We hope that by the time these words are read there will be fewer strained faces to be seen about the building, as various pleasant functions are planned for the end of term. No doubt the only strained faces to be seen by then will be those of the staff.

We are all sorry to lose Miss Llewellyn, whose stay with us has been short. She has found a permanent post at a large girls' school in Lancashire, where we hope she will be very happy.

The Night Sky.

The peaceful night sky that we used to know Was a blue vault of twinkling distant stars, Through which the yellow moon sent silver bars Of light, down to the sleeping world below.

And all men were at peace with other men, And night was quiet in the moonlit towns, And not a blade of grass stirred on the downs, And reeds gleamed silvery-white beside the fen.

But those were the nights of long years ago, And now, the quiet is disturbed by sound Of barking guns, whose echoes loud rebound From hills; and in the towns, red, houses glow.

The stars are dim beside the flash of shells, And loud through smoky air there comes the drone Of raiders, and weirdly the sirens moan; Firemen struggle in the heart of fiery hells.

But these horrors are not endured in vain, We must defy the enemy at our door, Until, serene and peaceful as before, The sky we used to know returns again.

Prize Day.

The Prize-giving for 1940-41 was held on Wednesday, March 18. The chair was taken by the Rev. T. L. Parry, who, in his opening speech, welcomed Mr. Dowling on behalf of the Governors. He referred, too, to the loss the school had sustained by the death of Mr. David John.

The principal speaker was the Rev. D. D. Bartlett. He discussed the purpose of education, and stressed the importance of the home. He realised the value of such aids as school meals, but was afraid that an excess of organisation might reduce the influence of the home. There was a danger that the authorities would be allowed to do too much and the parents too little. The tragedy arose when the home became a mere dormitory.

Mr. Dowling, in his report, emphasised the difficulties of the year under review, describing it as a hard but heroic year, the most difficult in the history of the school. In conclusion, he thought that the age of personal success for the sake of personal success was passing. The schools had a great part to play in preparing boys and girls for the life of service and sacrifice which lay ahead of them.

The prizes and certificates were distributed by Mrs. Parry, the list being as follows :---

School Notes.

The number of pupils in school at the beginning of this term was 281-147 girls and 134 boys.

The Prefects are :---

Tudor :- Dorothy Brookfield (senior), Rita O'Callaghan, K. G. Carr, R. B. Lawrence.

Picton :- June Parcell, Elma Shears, Roma Davies, M. Howells, G. R. Davies, E. A. Orsman, P. V. Huyshe.

Glyndwr :- Pauline Thomas, Marion Preece, Catherine Phillips, J. W. Blencowe (senior), D. J. Rogers, C. Parry. 14.

Congratulations to F. Bennett and D. O. Murray on passing the Naval Artificers' Examination last November. They have both now started their training.

David Lewis passed the Aircraft Apprentices examination at the same time, and did very well, being placed 66th out of 655 candidates. Unfortunately hestailed to pass the medical examination, his eyesight not being quite good enough.

Cecil Parry did extremely well at the Dockyard examination in April, coming 15th out of about 1,500, and having the top mark for English in the whole examination. At the same examination Fred Hughes and Alan Williams also qualified for entry, Hughes being 237th and Williams 260th.

At a "Dig For Victory" Slogan Competition organised by the Pembrokeshire Agricultural Committee in March for schoolchildren, all the over sixteen prizes were won by the School. E. A. Orsman took first prize with the slogan—"If Victory is to be ours, We must dig in leisure hours." Betty Poulsen won the second prize for "Britain's strength will grow if YOU weed, water and sow," and Myrtle Ewen third for "Britons up, and dig the ground, for that is where victory is found."

The winter term ended very cheerfully. On Tuesday, December 16, the Juniors had their party, followed by the Senier Party on the following day. Term ended on Friday morning, most of the morning being taken up by a concert organised by the VIth Form. The chief item was a farce comedy, called "The Crimson Coconut." The laughter with which this was received would certainly have warmed the author's heart. The parts were played by George Davies, P. V. Huyshe, Mervyn Howells, D. J. Rogers, Rita O'Callaghan and Marion Preece. One surprise item was a short play, dealing with the hold-up of a coach by high-This play was both written and performed by waymen. members of IIA. The other items were songs by the VI Form girls, mouth organ solos by R. Wainwright, piano solos by A. Rubython and D. J. Rogers, and a burlesque item by George Davies and Kenneth Carr. It was a new way of ending the term, but it was most certainly appreciated.

At the end of January the School organised its own Warships Week, beginning on January 26, as a part of the town Warships Week. It was run as a house competition, and we all thought we should do well if we obtained ± 300 . It was very gratifying therefore to discover at the end of the week that we had raised £1,040 11s. Od. This was made up as follows:— Picton, £385 18s. 6d.; Glyndwr, £341 16s. 6d.; Tudor, £312 16s. The amounts brought in varied considerably, ranging from over £100 to a few shillings. On February 10, the Dorian Trio paid us another visit. This time there were five artistes, as the Trio were accompanied by Miss Margery Dickson, soprano, and Miss Saunders Davies, who played the recorder with Miss Taylor. Most people agreed that this was the most enjoyable Trio concert we have had.

Two events in March were our paper salvage week beginning on March 2, and the acquisition of our new radiogram, which has already proved useful. We are hoping to have our new cinema projector by next term.

At last the A.T.C. has been started. We now have one flight, who held their first parade on April 29. Room I has been considerably brightened by the large number of silhouettes and sketches of aircraft that now adorn the walls. Parades are held on Wednesdays and Fridays. The flight is under the command of Mr. Dowling, while several members of the staff are helping, Mr. George taking Aircraft Recognition, Mr. Rees, Physical Training, and Miss Ballaster, Aerial Navigation. There are a few members from outside the school. These have only recently joined and are at present attending classes on Wednesday evenings, given by Miss Ballaster and Mr. Evans.

With the object of providing Pre-Service Training in its widest sense for girls between 14 and 18, a Ranger Home Emergency Service Company was formed in the Spring Term, with Miss Ballaster as captain and Miss Thomas as lieutenant. Meetings are held every Friday, when the members learn Morse, First-Aid and Fire fighting, and gain other essential knowledge in interesting and amusing ways.

School can be said to have returned practically to normal on May 4, when we returned to our old starting time of nine o'clock.

There have been the usual practical examinations this term. The first was Zoology conducted by Mr. Foxon of Cardiff University College on May 28. On June 12, Mrs Porter came for Needlework, on June 15 Mr. Harby, of Carmarthen Training College, for Woodwork, and on June 16, Professor Mary Williams, of Swansea, for the French oral.

We were very sorry to hear, in December, of the death of Mr. David John, one of our oldest and most faithful governors.

We express our sincere sympathy to Col. J. Loftus Adams on the death in action of his only son, Lt. John Adams, R N.V.R.

On May 17, a former governor of the School, the Archdeacon of St. David's, the Rev. R. Rice Thomas, died at Goodwick,

We are very sorry to hear of the continued illness of the School's good friend, the Rev. D. D. Bartlett. He has been out of action since before Easter, and is still rather seriously ill.

Mr. Devereux completed his training some months ago and is now a fully-fledged member of the Intelligence Corps with the rank of corporal. His work is, of course, very 'hush-hush', but we are permitted to say that he finds it very interesting,

Mr. Cleaver is stationed at an Aerodrome in the South of England, his unit being concerned with the reception of American aircraft coming over under the lend-lease arrangement.

On Friday, June 19, the IVth Form Biology class spent the afternoon in Manorbier, in order to study different plants. Mrs. Robinson contributed to the enjoyment of the afternoon by pointing out specimens which were found in the hedges. Among other things seen were a salt marsh where the wild iris, ragged robin, and sweet-smelling mint grew. In a thicket there were fox gloves, white dog-roses, and blackberry bushes. In addition, many kinds of seaweed were collected. The class was glad to have the company of Miss Rich, and altogether they spent a very pleasant and instructive afternoon.

Marjorie Hughes left early in March to begin work at Lloyds Bank in Pembroke. At the end of that month Alan Rubython left to begin a five-years apprenticeship with a firm of electrical engineers at Rugby. He is going to be trained as a draughtsman.

Of others who have recently left and obtained posts, Dorothy Lloyd is at the Mines Depot, Frances Barrett with Messrs. Williams & Moore, the Chemists, Lorna Griffiths at Pembroke Post Office, Pamela Stead at the Egg-Grading Station in Pembroke, Nancy White with the Pearl Insurance Company, W. Morris at Woolworth's, and Jean Ross and Richard Davies with the G.W.R.

Old Pupils' Notes.

There is again plenty of news of old pupils in the services, but we should be grateful for more information of such matters.

Two old boys in the R.A.F. have been promoted since Christmas. W. G. Evans of Neyland, was made Flight-Lieutenant early in the year, and has recently been promoted Squadron-Leader. He has been serving in the present Libyan campaign.

Idwal Nicholls, who received his commission some time ago, was promoted Flight Lientenant in June.

Three old boys have received commissions this year, all in the Royal Artillery. They are Tom Davies, who joined the Territorials just before the outbreak of war, Leslie Thomas, of Bangeston, and Richard C. Jones.

Mervyn Taylor has made rapid strides in the R.A.F., having been a Warrant Officer since June of last year. He is serving on the same station as Mr Cleaver. Ewart Sudbury has been promoted sergeant in the R.A.F., accounts section. He joined the service some years ago, and returned a few months ago from $4\frac{1}{2}$ years service in Iraq and Palestine.

Another old boy to be promoted recently in the R.A.F. is Alan Davies. In May he completed a fourteen weeks course, and is now a Physical Training Instructor, with the rank of corporal. Before joining the R.A.F. last summer, he was teaching in Birmingham, and while there served for 18 months as a part-time worker in the A.F.S., and worked through the period of bad raids there.

Douglas Thomas has been promoted Quartermaster Sergeant in the R.A.M.C.

W. E. Adams completed his preliminary training in the Fleet Air Arm at the end of January, and left early in February for the U.S.A., where he hopes to qualify as a pilot by the Autumn.

Wilfrid Smith is also abroad training to be a bomber pilot. Until he joined the R.A.F. he was in the Metropolitan Police. He left at the end of March for Canada.

A third old boy now training abroad as a pilot is George Phelps, who is in Canada, and will probably continue his training in the U.S.A.

Glyn Evans, of Bosherston, is now a Sergeant Pilot in the R.A.F., having been trained in California. He is serving as a Test Pilot in this country.

Cephas Rouse is a commissioned pilot in the Fleet Air Arm. Peter Gray is now in Northern India with the R.A.F.

We regret that the name of Oriel Llewellyn was included in error in our list of old boys serving in the Army. He is an aeroengine fitter in the R.A.F.

Bryn Parry was promoted sergeant several months ago. He is serving in the Royal Corps of Signals

Clifford Isaacs is a Staff-Sergeant in the R.A.O.C., and is serving in Palestine.

An interesting letter was received last December from Reuben White, who is now a Leading-Writer in the Navy. His letter, which was dated August 22, gave some account of his movements since he left England in the previous January. After a voyage round the Cape of Good Hope he arrived at Alexandria, and was then sent immediately to Suda Bay in Crete, where he remained until the evacuation. After a rest in Egypt he was sent to Beirut in Syria, where he met Trevor Owens, who is a schoolmaster in the Navy. Owens told him he had met Rowland Rees in Egypt.

Both Skyrme and Rowland Rees are somewhere in the Middle East. Although in different units, Skyrme being a captain in the R A.M.C., and Rowland a Staff Quartermaster-Sergeant in the R.A.S.C., they met early in the year in Haifa in Syria.

C. M. Wells served throughout the Malayan campaign, and although he failed to get away, he was seen two days after the fall of Singapore, so it is hoped he is safe as a prisoner of war. He was a veterinary surgeon in Malaya and was an officer in the Malay Defence Force. Owing to the defection of the natives this force largely disappeared, so he joined up with the Artillery, with which unit he was serving at the time of the capitulation. He had been able to get his wife and two children away to Australia, but of course lost all his possessions, as the Japanese occupied the district where he was living.

E. G. Pendleton was reported missing, believed taken prisoner, early in March. He was a wireless operator in a tank, serving with the 1st Armoured Division in the Middle East. Later in the month it was confirmed that he was a prisoner of war in Italy.

In our last number we reported that Jack Calnon, of the Merchant Service, had been lost with his ship last October. Later it was found that he was safe. Unfortunately, at the beginning of April, official information was received that his ship was overdue and must be presumed lost.

We deeply regret to report the death in action of four old boys. Lt.-Commander E. J. Chubb, who had been serving on H.M.S. Exeter for twelve months, was reported missing in March after the battle in the Java Sea, when Exeter was lost. He entered the Royal Navy fifteen years ago. In the early part of the war he took part in anti-submarine work on destroyers, and also served at Narvik.

Ted Johnson was killed on active service with the R.A.F. in the Middle East on March 18. Six weeks before his death he had been promoted Warrant-Officer. He had joined the R.A.F. four years previously, and was sent abroad shortly after the outbreak of war. He came home about two years ago, but after a short leave, returned to the Middle East and took part in bombing expeditions in the Western Desert, Greece and Crete.

Philip Winter lost his life on April 11, as the result of an aircraft accident in the U.S.A. He was training to be a pilot in the R.A.F.

Eric Williams was killed on active service on June 15. He joined the local Territorial unit of the Royal Artillery shortly before the outbreak of war, and transferred to the R.A.F. in June, 1941, receiving a commission as observer.

Frank Edwards, after spending four years as an apprentice at the Austin Motor Works in Birmingham, was about six months ago appointed as technical engineer in the research and experimental department of the same works. He holds the National Certificate of Engineering and the City and Guilds Engineering Certificate, 1st Class, and was the only engineering apprentice from the Austin Works to be successful in gaining the Higher National Certificate of Engineering last July from the Birmingham Technical College of Engineering.

Dorothy Dyke has now obtained the highest nursing qualification, the S.R.N. She passed the Fever qualification, the F.R.N., some time ago. Her brother Jim is a qualified engineering draughtsman. On leaving school he spent nine months at a Government Training Centre, after which he was taken on by the Ford Motor Company. He is now out of his probationary period and is working at one of the company's aero-engine works, where they turn out Rolls-Royce Merlin engines.

Another old boy who did a similar course is J. H. Prout, who is at Rugby, where he is charge-hand at an Electrical Engineering Works.

Edwin Lewis has passed his Intermediate B.Sc. (Engineering) at Birmingham University in the 1st Division, which means that he must have been top of the list in some subjects.

Paul Thomas has passed in all his subjects at the end of his first year at Swansea, where he is taking a course in Engineering under London University.

W. J. C. Price and Leonard Silcox have passed the Intermediate B.Sc. of London University at Swansea.

Barbara Shoosmith has been accepted for training as a laboratory assistant under the government. She is going to Cambridge for a six weeks course.

Leonard Thomas has completed his course in Radio Theory and Practice and is now working at the Phillips Radio Works in Surrey. At the end of his course he took an examination in which he was successful. Another boy who took the same course as Thomas is Kenneth Edwards of Bosherston.

Marion Hall has been appointed to a clerical post under the Ministry of Labour, at Pembroke Dock. Before this she was in the Rates Office of the Borough.

S. Roch left the Food Office in April for a clerical post at the Municipal Offices.

Gwyneth James completes her training at Homerton this term, and has already found a post for next term under the Middlesex County Council.

George Rees, who was ordained priest some time ago, is at present a Youth Organiser in the Diocese of London.

Margaret Rouse called at School early in March. She left about six years ago and has been in the Post Office ever since.

She is now a telegraphist at the Central Telegraph Office, in the City of London. She was in London during the bad raids of 1940-41, and was on duty in the city during the fire-raid of December 29, 1940.

Frances Smith had to give up nursing some years ago owing to ill-health, but is now well again. She is working as a clerk with the Air Ministry in Gloucestershire.

We record with regret the death, on March 14, of Hazel Halliwell, after an illness lasting twelve months.

We congratulate the following Old Pupils on their marriage : Aug. 6—Alan Davies to Rose Read.
